

Summer just wouldn't be hot without

FABULOUS DISASTER

"We thought you might want to sweat a bit"

The recording is underway!! After two sick nights in the studio, Eric laid down some killer drum tracks and only broke three microphones, blowing two channels on the board and causing the firing of an engineer. Chris, with his silver tongue and Old World charm, convinced the owner of the studio that it indeed was not Eric's fault but the fault of cheap and shoddy equipment. We were glad that Eric was able to spare some time from his busy schedule of picking fights in the lobby of certain buildings in between visits to his chiropractor. Eric will have just returned from a long vacation out west, climbing up Thomas Jefferson's nose on Mt. Rushmore, so do your best to welcome him back to New York at the July 1st gig at Street Level. David and Chris, meanwhile, have been slaving away at the recordings in addition to their extra-curricular activities and need these gigs in order to feel semi-sane again. And will there be ivory tinklings??

as usual, all shows start on time and please mention FABULOUS DISASTER when you come through the door, don't worry, we aren't getting any money, but the club owners like to know whether people are just stumbling in or coming to see the band.

Take the F train to 2nd Ave. or the 6 train to Bleeker Street. Last time we played this venue there was a bloody and destructive car wreck outside. We will try to produce the same level of carnage at this show, but Thom Jack vetoed our idea of sacrificing a live virgin.

The Underworld

(formerly, The Pool Bar)

643 Broadway at Bleeker St.

$5 cover 212-473-9263

Happy Hour 7-8 and 2-4 with two for one drinks

If you get here early and take advantage of the happy hour special, you'll be primed for some serious heckling by the time the band starts. Also, merchants at the Union Square Farmer's Market will give you a discount on over-ripe tomatoes if you mention Fabulous Disaster. This is something to take advantage of.

SATURDAY, JULY 24th 8:45 p.m.

$5 cover 212-388-0560 5-8 Happy Hour

Back to STREET LEVEL for the NEW MUSIC SEMENAR. (We always wanted to be in a seminary!) We will be celebrating and promoting the release of the REACTION CD which contains the smash archival hit "Still in Love With You." This CD will soon be available at Tower Records as well as at this club.
