

CUSTARD WALLY

"It was then determined that there is no greater fool than Wally."

Hello!!! Didja miss us? We sure did!! It's been awhile since our exciting millennium gig in the bowels of deserted NYC, but we haven't been loafing, honest!!

Chris has taken the entrepreneurial leap and opened his own real estate office. Sure, he can be seen singing and strumming on the subway for chump change, but that has nothing to do with financial need, rather he's taking this opportunity to get in touch with his "roots" and "live the music." Good thinking Chris!! In addition to panhandling, he's been in the recording studio, as usual, finishing up vocals for the "Daze of Swine & Hoses" CD, hopefully out this summer.

Speaking of recording: A rare trip to NY for R.A. Norwood, keyboard and tubist extraordinaire, resulted in final keyboard sessions for some of the numbers on the "Dirty Pictures" CD (anticipate a 2002 release) as well as normally mild-mannered Tony Ungaro, our knob-twiddling engineer, flipping his lid and nearly killing a towel-headed cabby with his bare hands on Park Row driving home from the session!! Go Tony!

Dave bought a Rickenbacker bass!! Not since the wolf climbed on little red riding whore have we seen such tightly wedged prying as in this attack on his wallet. Why not see him display "30 something" type emotions by flinging a beer on it at our next show? We're sure he'll be down wif that and other chances to emote and realize his restless soul's cravings.

When not missing flights for important millennial gigs, Mark has been dabbling in the world of financial distress and bankruptcy. Perhaps he can be persuaded otherwise by making insensitive remarks about hypothetical penurious knuckleheads when you see him! (e.g. "That f*ckin c*cksucker never paid me! I'd like to beat the sh*t out of his deadbeat ass and p*ss in his mouth, leave him covered in his own blood and feces," etc.) A round of free drinks if you make him cry!!

But enough of nonsense past, it's getting warmer and it's time to make some more noise!! It seems we've been deemed the perfect nincumpoop's band by our booking agent, cos they insist we perform for their April Fool's Concert.....

Saturday, April 1st, 10:00pm Under Acme
