

CUSTARD WALLY

We're back... Like Lucifer re-ascending from the smoking sewers of time, we've returned. Did you really believe that you could escape us? Did you think that we had gone away never to return? Were you hoping that we had shriveled up and simply rotted away? NO! Not one little bit! Much like the stalwart cicada, we spent our larval time underground feeding on the roots of human society developing an album to create a buzz like the world has never heard before whilst awaiting the spring rains to signal our journey up through soggy dirt and subway mire to climb the towers of this great city where we break from our shell, spread our gossamer wings to fly about in a feeding and coital frenzy to insure the coming of the next generation...errr, or something like that.

We kid you not! There is a fresh Custard Wally CD and we hereby grant notice and announce its release. Daze of Swine and Hoses is now available for your listening pleasure. Twelve pop tunes to delight your tympanic membranes and oscillate the spherical otolithic granules of your cochlea in a manner in which they've never vibrated in the past. And to celebrate this auspicious release we have a gig at which you may hear live versions of selected pop masterpisses.

The release of Daze of Swine and Hoses is not the only cause for revelry. One must rejoice that mid-riff season is upon us once again! We also have a new drummer: one percussionist extraordinaire, G-Rod. Never mind the Mohawk and scowl, he's a nice boy from Queens. The boots have steel toes and the firepower is slaughterhouse steamed. We are happy to have with us such an accomplished Beat Master and well-armed reprobate. Actually, he's really quite some fellow! We think you'll find his rhythmic perturbations quite pleasing.

Perhaps you have something to celebrate as well besides your obvious anticipation of another Custardian release? Well then, join us on...

We'll be playing a 45 minute set, so timeliness is of the essence~! There's no cover charge, and the menu is reportedly vomit-friendly. Make sure you digest your wings and salads before we plug in. This is our first show in years, so share in our humiliation as we break strings, trip over cords, drop our picks, blow out the PA, enrage the soundman, etc.....hecklers welcome!!
